PUC 3-1

Request:

Referring to the response to PUC 1-37, which requested a calculation of Narragansett Electric's earned return on equity for its FERC-jurisdictional transmission business, please clarify whether the calculation of the ROEs shown in Attachment PUC 1-37 includes the costs and revenues associated with the Block Island transmission cable (BITS). If not, please explain why the Company in its response did not consider the transmission cable as FERC jurisdictional; then recalculate the ROEs for each of the given years, assuming that the BITs is a part of Narragansett Electric's FERC-jurisdictional transmission business.

Response:

The ROEs shown in Attachment PUC 1-37 include BITS costs and revenues allocated to the FERC-jurisdictional transmission business.

Response:

Please provide a schedule showing a 5-year annual look-back of total Net Metering costs that were recovered in rates (2016-2020), and a 5-year annual projection of expected future total Net Metering costs (2021-2025). For the forecasted costs, please use the best available information from the current interconnection queue. Please use the Company's judgment to make reasonable adjustments to remove from the forecast and account for the likelihood of projects in the queue enrolling in Renewable Energy Growth during those future years. Please provide a description of the assumptions used to develop the forecasted costs.

Response:

Please see Attachment PUC-3-4 for the requested information. The attachment shows a 5-year annual projection of expected future total Net Metering costs (2021-2025) using two methods.

Method A employs a solar photovoltaic (PV) forecast that was developed by the Company in October-November of 2020, for the purpose of its 2021 Electric Peak (MW) Forecast (page 46 of The Narragansett Electric Company 2021 Electric Peak (MW) Forecast report, dated November 2020). The Company is using this baseline solar PV forecast to calculate net metering credits. This projection is based on an estimate of installations for solar PV units already in the application queue for the first two years, then continuation of those levels until year 2023, and then a slowly declining number of new annual solar PV installations to account for market saturation.

Method A assumptions:

- Uses solar PV only and does not include other technology or fuel source types. Within the Company's current interconnection queue, 98% of the pending capacity is solar PV.
- The interconnection queue and solar PV forecast can include both "behind-the-meter" (BTM) and "front-of-meter" (FTM) solar PV systems. However, the Company assumed all systems are FTM because of the challenge to analyze and calculate net excess generation for BTM system and therefore calculate its net metering costs. Historically, up to 40% of installed solar PV capacity has been BTM facilities, which could affect a forecast of costs.
- Uses 2020 rates for distribution, transmission, transition, and LRS (SOS) and an average rate for energy for sales to ISO New England, Inc.
- All installed MW was assumed to be operational for given calendar year.

Method B uses current interconnection queue data (as of March 8, 2021), including current interconnection status of pending net metering applications, their estimated connection date, as well as projects that may move forward after applying a historically typical cancellation rate. Currently, there are total of 651 MW pending net metering projects in the Company's interconnection queue.

Method B assumptions:

- Includes all net metering projects that have made a system modification payment, and uses their estimated connected dates as their assumed interconnection year. This amounts to 260 MW of net metering projects.
- The Company has observed a 22% cancellation rate after issuing an interconnection service agreement (ISA) for signature, which means that 78% of applied capacity is connected after customers receive their executable ISA. There are 44 MW of net metering applications with executable ISAs, and for this forecast, the Company assumed that 34 MW will be connected.
- The Company has observed a 50% cancellation rate with projects prior to the ISA step of interconnection process. There are 467 MW of applications currently pending in interconnection queue that have not yet received an executable ISA, and for this forecast, the Company assumed that 233 MW will be connected.
- In addition, the Company also anticipates receiving 198 MW in CY 21 and 217 MW in CY 22. The Company has observed an overall cancellation rate of 32% between the application received and the application connected step. For this forecast, the Company assumed that only 83 MW of applied capacity out of 282 MW of estimated connected capacity (after applying the cancellation rate to anticipated MWs) to be connected prior to end of calendar year 2025.
- All other assumptions are the same as Method A.

PUC 3-5

Response:

Please update the Company's response to PUC 3-6 in Docket No. 5005 with actual 2020 data.

Response:

Please see Table 1 for an annual breakdown of credit dollars transferred to satellite customers by rate class. CY 2021 data includes transfers through the first bill period of the year only. CY 2020 is updated from the Company's previous response to show all 12 annual bill cycles. Please also note that in previous responses the Company counted Remote Net Meter facilities as any system with a C06 bill rate, of which there were 37 during September 2020. The Company retrieved transfer history of all Net Metering projects with transfers, which now includes host facilities on an A16 rate as well. The increase of this project list is attributed to more systems coming on-line since September 2020 and the consideration of additional A16 host systems. The Company shows 202 Net Metering Facilities on these lists.

Response:

Please provide a schedule with the following: (i) a list of all the accounts (by customer name) in the G32 Rate Class that received renewable net metering credits in 2020, (ii) the total dollar amount billed to each account (before netting of credits) showing volumetric and demand charge billings separately, (iii) the total annual amount of credits provided to each, (iv) the total net amount actually billed to the account (net of credits), and (v) the renewable project from where the credits were transferred (including name and facility ID number). (This data may be provided with Confidential Treatment)

Response:

Please see Attachment PUC 3-7-1 for the list of G-32 accounts that received net metering credits in 2020 and Attachment PUC 3-7-2 for the list of renewable net metering projects that are transferring credits to these G-32 accounts. Please note the following details:

- 63 of the 72 G-32 accounts are not receiving their electric supply from the Company.
- Among those 63 accounts, nine were charged for supply directly by the supplier for part of the year or for the full year. Thus, the total dollar amount billed (column ii a) for those nine accounts does not include dollars that are charged directly by supplier to the customer.
- If a supplier's portion is being charged through the Company, then those dollars are included in the dollar amount billed.
- 17 of the 72 G-32 accounts are receiving net metering credits from more than one renewable net metering project.
- In Attachment PUC 3-7-2, "Host" refers to renewable net metering project accounts and "satellite" refers to recipients of net metering credits.
